

Make Farm Work Easier

It's hard enough at best. Put in a modern water system and do away with a lot of hard work and waste of time in the house, barn and dairy.

The MILWAUKEE AIR POWER WATER SYSTEM has a wonderfully simple pump and is as reliable as any other farm machinery. You can have water anywhere you want it any time you want it by simply turning a faucet. No hand pumping and no carrying.

You will be intensely interested in learning just what a water system will do to lighten your work. It costs nothing to talk the matter over with us. Call or phone.

OBITUARY

Mrs. J. A. Knecht died at her home at Loyal Oak, Wednesday, Nov. 8, from heart trouble, following a prolonged period of poor health.

Diana Reichard, the daughter of David and Anna Reichard, was born January 23, 1853, in Hanover township, Lehigh county, Pennsylvania. On March 20, the same year, she was baptized by Rev. Becker. While she was still very small her parents removed to Loyal Oak, where on May 8, 1869, she was confirmed in Trinity Lutheran church by Rev. Rothacker, retaining her membership at this place during her entire life. The marriage of Miss Reichard to Mr. Knecht occurred Feb. 23, 1871, and to this union six sons and five daughters were born, one son and one daughter preceding the mother in death. Her demise occurred at the age of 67 years, 9 months, and 5 days, the husband and nine children surviving. Funeral services were conducted by her pastor, Rev. H. C. Glander, on Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Lutheran church, and burial was made in the cemetery at Loyal Oak.

sentations made to them by Burke, and a hearing of the case is expected to be arranged for some time this week.

In a letter to a local stockholder from A. J. Hudson, president of the company, the latter attempts to discredit the statements of W. H. Burke, concerning the latter's resignation from the company and those reflecting upon the instability of the company and the integrity of its officials.

In his letter Hudson states that the company is perfectly solvent, and has money on hand to pay every obligation it owes.

Explaining Burke's former connection with the company and his later disconnection and subsequent charges against the company, Hudson writes in his letter:

"The company some time ago employed W. H. Burke as its general manager, and the Board of Directors turned over the management of the company to Mr. Burke, having confidence at the time that he was the proper man for the position.

"As time went on the Board of Directors began to feel that Mr. Burke was not working for the interest of the company, and finally there were certain acts on his part which made it very apparent to us that he was not only not working for the interest of the company, but was working against the interest of the company. Your Board of Directors thereupon discharged Mr. Burke.

"Mr. Burke went to see a few stockholders of the company and persuaded them to bring a suit against the company, and the Board of Directors, charging the Board with squandering the company's money.

"The bill was filed before the Board of Directors had any knowledge that such things were being done, and simultaneous with the filing of this bill, and before we had knowledge of same, these people went to the court and asked that a receiver be appointed for the company.

"We wish to assure the stockholders that the charges brought against the Board of Directors are entirely unfounded and we are exceedingly anxious to get into court for the purpose of having the whole matter cleared up.

"In the meantime we wish to assure all the stockholders that their interests are being conserved and protected."

At the meeting Saturday night President Hudson and Fiscal Agent Giering entered the court room while Burke was making his accusations. When Burke had finished, both Hudson and Giering gave Burke the lie, and incriminations and re-incriminations were exchanged rapidly for a brief time as to afford considerable amusement to the stockholders present, notwithstanding their anxiety as to the safety of their investments.

Burke wants the local stockholders to contribute a small per capita tax for the purpose of defraying legal expenses in a suit which he proposes to institute against the company.

FIRST AID PROTECTS

YOUNG APPLE TREES

First aid to young apple trees for winter protection against field mice and other rodents consists in cleaning the grass of mulch away from the base of the tree. The cinders should be compacted on a 24-inch radius around the tree.

Mice are discouraged from nesting close to trees when the mulch or grass is hoed away and cinders applied.

A final protection consists in placing a small-mesh strip of wirecloth around the tree.

The department of horticulture at the Ohio Experiment Station state that many trees were injured or destroyed last winter by rodents, since the heavy snow caused them to seek the bark for food.

SUBWAY VIA CANAL BED

AKRON TO WADSWORTH

Rapid subway passenger service between Akron and Wadsworth through large tubes laid in the present bed of the Ohio canal may be a reality within the next year if the plans of the city property committee of the council are carried out, according to the Akron Beacon-Journal.

A bill providing that the state give the city of Akron the permanent use of the canal bed from the central part of the city to the south line of the county is now in the hands of the committee, says the Akron newspaper, and it will be introduced at the coming meeting of the legislature. In the event that the state acts favorably on the proposition, the city will endeavor to let a franchise for subway service as far south as Wadsworth, members of the council committee say.

The proposition of converting the bed of the Ohio canal into a base for a subway was brought to the attention of the Akron city council nearly a year ago. At that time it was referred to the city property committee, with instructions that a bill for the state legislature be prepared. The bill has now been drawn, and will be submitted to the city council within the next two weeks for their approval, members of the committee say.

Members of the city property committee of the city council say that the use of the canal bed will probably be granted to the city, as a similar request was granted recently to the city of Cincinnati by the state legislature. All legislation should be completed by the state before spring with the letting of a franchise for the building of the subway some time next summer, the committee-men say.

Commenting on the matter the Wadsworth Banner-Press wonders how a subway following the bed of the Ohio canal can reach Wadsworth, and says:

"At last reports the old canal bed was nearest to Wadsworth at a point on Second street, Barberton—7 miles distant. It might be suggested that the canal bed from Barberton to Clinton be removed and re-laid from Barberton to Wadsworth, thus furnishing the completed tube.
